Tower of strength:
Elizabeth Turner

Simon was killed

Widow writes about her eight years of grief

By Lucy Purdy

A MUM whose life was thrown into disarray when her husband was killed in the 9/11 attacks has described how penning a book about what happened has helped her cope with her grief.

Elizabeth Turner, from Muswell Hill, was seven months pregnant when she watched, with dread, the September 11 terrorist attacks unfold on television in 2001. Working as a human resources manager for Channel 4, she even attended a management meeting that afternoon as she tried to get on with life while waiting for a phone call from her husband Simon, who had been at a conference at the World Trade Center.

But the call never came and Elizabeth was forced to face a new life as a widow and single mother to the couple's son William, now seven.

Using journals from the time, Elizabeth, 41, has now written a moving account of how she dealt with her "horrific" grief and how she rebuilt her life for the sake of her child.

Speaking to the Advertiser this week, she said: "September 11 is such a public event and there are so many accounts of that day, I felt it was important William had mine too."

"I also wanted to do something in memory of Simon and help others. But what I've learnt is that grief is an incredibly personal thing – there's no such thing as closure."

"We had a memorial service for Simon but that day was really no different from the next. For other people, it was their chance to say goodbye but I woke up the next day and I was still a widow, my husband was still dead and I still had a baby on my own."

Starting with her "ramblings of a mad woman" from the day after the towers collapsed to her thoughts which gradually became more coherent, Elizabeth also spoke to friends and family while compiling her book, The Blue Skies Of Autumn.

With eight years' hindsight, Elizabeth describes the period of Simon's death as a "whole different time" from which there are large chunks missing from her memory. She believes her mind and body went into some sort of shutdown to protect her unborn son.

"Simon was a publishing director and flew to New York on the Monday from Heathrow. I spoke to him that morning at about 7am, New York time," she recalled. "He was in his hotel, getting ready to go to a conference on the 106th floor of the North Tower and it was just a normal conversation."

"He went off there and I went to the Channel 4 canteen for lunch. When I came back it was everywhere on TV. My colleague and I watched the second plane fly into the South Tower in my office – and then I started panicking."

"Someone told me the towers had collapsed, we switched the TVs off and then had a HR meeting as planned. I don't remember much after that."

"My family picked me up and I started to let go then, it just merges into a hazy memory."

Her "incredible" friends and family helped Elizabeth cope with the practical aspects in the weeks and months afterwards, but she remembers the dark days of being entirely isolated in her grief.

Elizabeth said: "I was seven months pregnant and family liaison officers were asking about Simon's dental records and distinctive marks for identification – it was completely surreal."

"I knew it looked unlikely he had survived but I refused to believe it for weeks. I felt that if there should be one person fighting Simon's corner, it should be his wife."

"In the end his brother and best man flew to New York for me, registered his name with the police and checked the hospitals. I wanted them to go rather than some official because I trusted them – I wanted someone there who gave a damn."

"September 20 was the day the phone call came through that there was no record of him in any hospital and that's when I knew he was dead."

Elizabeth is now dealing with William's inevitable curiosity about his father, realising he will be "layering up" what happened that fateful day for the rest of his life. She said: "It is so hard to be a single parent because I have to answer questions from William about his dad, take him to school, do the disciplining, comfort him and pay the gas and electric bills. It's an incredibly big job."

"William is William but a lot of Simon's friends are startled because they look so alike. Simon was a lover of life. He loved a good party, good food and fine wine. But it was funny, he didn't always have the stamina for it!"

"He was a true gentleman too and found joy in all aspects of life. I tell William how similar he is to his dad and I think he likes that idea."

Now in a new relationship and working as a Reiki healer and life coach in her company Ulife, Elizabeth hopes her book will help others who have gone through life-changing experiences. She said: "Grief is grief and if Simon had died in a car crash or died of cancer it wouldn't alter those emotions. I have a voice to talk about my grief because it was 9/11 and everyone knows what happened but I want to help anyone else who has found themselves in a similar situation."

"Life-coaching taught me that this is your anguish and no one in the world knows how it feels. It was so liberating to have some control back – to be able to take the lid off my grief and put it back on in my own time."

Muswell Hill's eco-pioneers get green light for low-carbon zone

By Lucy Purdy

MUSWELL Hill has been named as one of ten neighbourhoods across London to win funding of up to £400,000 to help it become a pioneering low-carbon zone.

Up to 1,000 private homes, businesses, schools and Homes For Haringey blocks in Muswell Hill will be involved in the project after Haringey Council successfully won a bid for funding from London Mayor Boris Johnson. The plan is to slash the area's carbon emissions by 20 per cent by 2012, and by 60 per cent before 2025, by installing large solar panels on roof spaces and making public buildings, such as libraries, examples of low carbon energy use. Residents will also be advised on how to curb carbon emissions in their homes.

Council leader, Claire Kober, described it as a "real boost" for the borough's green credentials.

"We're thrilled," she said. "We want to become one of London's greenest boroughs and this innovative scheme is another key step in helping us achieve that important goal."

A bid for the cash, which is not yet finalised but will be at least £200,000, was drawn up with the help of the 35-strong Muswell Hill Sustainability Group, which campaigns to raise awareness of carbon footprints.

The group's chairman Alan Morton welcomed the news and hopes it would mark a shift in environmental thinking in Haringey. He said: "Climate change is a huge issue and we've got to stop just talking and actually do something – carbon dioxide is one of the main causes. I don't want to be alarmist but if we carry on without doing anything there will be some very serious consequences – sea levels will rise dramatically."

"We have to go beyond simple things like recycling and switching off lights – we need to think about where energy comes from and how we use it."

Fellow group member Dermot Barnes, who runs a sustainable building company called Ecodomus in Princes Lane, described the funding as "fantastic news".

He said: "There isn't a second to lose. We're also trying to get funding for the British Gas Green Streets project. If both come off, it will mean about half a million pounds in serious energy-saving measures for the community. We've been actively working with all sorts of people who are concerned about this issue and there are lots of really exciting things starting to happen."

Environmental regeneration charity Groundwork, the London Sustainability Exchange, British Gas and Marks and Spencer also helped draw up the bid. Visit www.mhsgroup.org or www.ecodomus.co.uk

Boris gears up for Friday ride

BORIS JOHNSON took to the saddle last week as he joined the new Cycle Friday scheme to get commuters on their bikes.

The London mayor set off from Finsbury Park at 8am on Friday with a team of energetic commuters on the way to central London.

It was one of six conveys setting off from different city locations.

Mayor Johnson said: "I tend to go by bike but, although it's getting safer, I fully appreciate that some people find it a little daunting. Cycle Fridays are a brilliantly simple way of giving commuters the confidence to get cycling."

The free scheme will depart from Finsbury Park gate, in Seven Sisters Road, at 8am every Friday until October 2.

Two years in jail for ploughing his car into love rival

By Lucy Purdy

A JEALOUS man who careered into his ex-girlfriend's new partner in Tottenham has been sentenced to two years behind bars.

Eric Asamoah, 27, a sales assistant from Great Cambridge Road, Edmonton, pleaded guilty to attacking the 32-year-old man with his Volkswagen Golf on September 3 last year.

The victim was waiting for his girlfriend on the pavement in Lordship Lane, near the junction with Bennington Road, when Asamoah careered across oncoming traffic on to the pavement, hitting the man with the car before swerving back on to the road and driving off.

The man was thrown across the pavement and into a nearby front garden where police found him, suffering from a double break to his leg. Asamoah was named as a suspect and handed himself in to police at Tottenham police station when he heard officers were looking for him.

Detective Constable Dan Byers, of Haringey CID, said: "Whatever his motive, be it jealousy or other, the consequences of Asamoah's irrational and irresponsible actions could have had far more serious consequences.

"Thankfully the victim's injuries were not far worse and he made a good recovery."

Asamoah was sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court on September 1 for GBH.

Capital's cyclists to be given freedom of the city

On Sunday 20 September, the Mayor of London, Boris Johnson, and Sky will host what is set to be the biggest mass participation cycling event ever held in the capital. The free event will give tens of thousands of cyclists the chance to enjoy traffic-free city centre roads for the day, encouraging riders of all ages and abilities to get on their bikes with friends and family. The route takes riders past landmarks such as Buckingham Palace, St Paul's Cathedral and The Tower of London and will feature St James Park and the river views of The Embankment.

As well as providing a unique opportunity to see one of the world's greatest cities in a new light and enjoying a day cycling with friends and family, there will also be a variety of exciting activities to create a carnival atmosphere in the capital.

Sky, together with the Mayor of London have put together an exciting feature that details all the information of how to participate in this year's Skyride, as well as detailing all the events and attractions that will be happening on the day.

This is a great feature opportunity to encourage your readers to get on their bikes and ride as well as enjoying the capital! There is a wealth of opportunity for support advertising including all attractions, restaurants, hotels in the city that you may have contacts with and all sports shops, especially bike retailers selling bikes and safety helmets etc. You can also contact your local gyms and leisure centres.

Please contact Angie/Lucy on 020 7632 7446 for further information.

Major setback:
Yvonne Douglas in her ruined home

Forced to spend months in burnt shell of a home

By Lucy Purdy

A WOMAN who has had to live in a reeking, burnt-out council flat for the past four months has slammed Haringey Council for failing to help her.

Surrounded by the debris of a fire which ripped through in her flat in Blaydon Close in May, Yvonne Douglas has had to endure weeks of "depressing" reminders of the terrifying blaze. Despite repeatedly contacting the council with the help of her lawyer, doctor and even Tottenham MP David Lammy, she has still not been found alternative accommodation.

Miss Douglas is currently sleeping on a camp bed suspended on plastic crates, has next to no furniture and has to have her windows permanently open to try to get rid the smell, which she fears may make her the target of thieves.

She said: "I woke up and saw thick, black smoke everywhere. Everything has been destroyed. It smells of smoke and so do all my clothes and the floor's damp and peeling away everywhere – it is so depressing. I'm just going round in circles with the council, they sent someone out with boxes for me to store my things in, but that's it.

"I suffer from sciatica and depression and I'm working toward an NVQ in cookery but this has been quite a setback – I've almost given up."

The death of a close family member about a year ago has left Miss Douglas particularly ill-equipped to deal with the stress of living in the ruined one-bedroom flat where she has lived for nine years.

David Lammy MP said: "I share Yvonne's frustration that she has still not been moved, and will be contacting the council again to find out why it has taken them so long to move her and get this issue resolved."

A spokesman for Haringey Council said: "As a matter of urgency we are looking to find alternative accommodation this week to suit the family's needs and apologise for any delay in dealing with the case."

Haringey boss set to retire

HARINGEY Council chief executive Ita O'Donovan will retire next year, after helping address the "serious failings" in children's services highlighted by the Baby Peter case.

Ita O'Donovan, who has been in the role since March 2006, will stand down in February after she reached retirement age in May this year.

Dr O'Donovan said: "We have taken decisive action over the past eight months and inspectors have recognised that progress has been made but much more needs to be done."

Singing the council's praises as Tottenham choir gets £4k grant

By Lucy Purdy

A NEW community choir is being launched in Tottenham to give people the chance to meet across the boundaries of age, nationality and faith.

Tottenham Community Choir had its first meeting last night at Downhills Primary School in Philip Lane. It received a £4,300 Making The Difference grant from Haringey Council to get things off the ground.

"I've been talking about this for years!" laughed one of the organisers, 61-year-old Jackie Richards, who lives in Downhills Park Road.

"I've lived around here for more than 30 years and I really enjoy it. But although people are friendly and support one another, there isn't really a chance to meet socially across the boundaries of things like faith and nationality."

"I thought this was the perfect chance to start something. We want it to be a high-quality choir but social cohesion and neighbourliness are just as important. You don't have to be a great singer to come along – we won't be singing full-blown operas from day one!"

The choir will meet at the school every Tuesday from 7.30pm to 9.30pm with rehearsals being led by professional music director Tom Fowkes. Tom, who lives nearby, plans to be "open minded" about the type of music they will take on. Those 16 or younger should be accompanied by an adult.

Councillor Kaushika Amin, cabinet member for community cohesion and involvement at Haringey Council, said: "This is just the kind of project our Making The Difference grant is designed to support. It will give residents of all ages and backgrounds the chance to come together, produce a unique sound and make new friends. It's a really worthwhile venture."

Email choir910@gmail.com

High note: Ziggy Moore, Chloe Doherty and daughter, Ayla, Jackie Richards, Leslie Church, Sabina Khan, Margaret Holdsworth and Eugene Ayisi are delighted by news that their choir can start singing together

Marsha migrates from the music world to the New York Marathon

By Rob Hastings

SIPPING lemon tea outside Ariana's Cafe on a sunny afternoon in her pink frock and a pair of scarlet Ray-Bans, Marsha Shandur looks the epitome of a lady at leisure.

Yet even in this most relaxed of settings, the energy that will drive the Xfm DJ and Finsbury Park resident through her New York marathon run in November is a constant presence.

There's a real vivacity in her conversation, whether talking about her love of new music, or why we need to take care of the elderly – or even how she takes inspiration from the simple joy of having two arms and two legs...

"I saw this programme about a woman who had a flesh-eating disease and lost all her limbs, and I was thinking that if you lost all your limbs, you'd be thinking, 'Man, all those times when I had four limbs and I never appreciated it'. So every time I run, I try and have a moment where I think, 'Isn't it amazing I can do this!'"

"I did Run The World in 1986 and came last out of everyone."

She's three weeks into her marathon training and although she has been a keen runner for some time, she confides that she is "terrified".

"I never thought I'd do anything like this," she says. "I did Run The World [Sport Aid] in 1986 and came last, not just out of all my friends, but out of everyone in Greenwich. I remember them taking down the barriers when everyone else had long gone home, and there was my little nine-year old self still puffing along."

There are two big inspirations that will help her lay this tragically amusing memory to rest. One is the memory of her late grandmother, a woman who fled Russia to Turkey in her childhood to escape the Bolsheviks before settling in Britain, resulting in a "strange accent" that Marsha frequently adopts with a smile. Struck by the experience of seeing her require more and more care towards the end of her life, she is enthusiastic in her support of Help The Aged and Age Concern, the charity she will be running for. Indeed, her voice strains with emotion as she speaks of the lonely and poverty-stricken lives of many elderly people in Britain, and how many say they sometimes have to choose between heating their house or having dinner.

But alongside the determination she feels in supporting this cause is the love of music that provides the oomph while out training at night.

"Without music, I just get bored. But I go out with my iPod thinking I'll just do a couple of miles, and every time I'm about to turn around another awesome song comes on and I end up doing these epic two-hour runs. When you're that excited about a song you want to do something positive with that energy."

"What I really love is telling people about bands."

Marsha first got into DJing while at university in Edinburgh. Radio is still her main love, but these days she is also an A&R scout for a music publishing company based in Nashville, manages a singer/songwriter named Sam Isaac, and picks all the songs for the TV comedy series The Inbetweeners too.

Although she owns a gramophone and is a big fan of '30s big-band musicians such as Glenn Miller, she admits that generally she has little interest in older music. I just think if I fell in love with Talking Heads or something like that, it'd break my heart that I wouldn't be able to go and see them live," she says. "Plus, I just don't have time to go and listen to all these older artists, and if I have to make a choice between new stuff and the old then I'm always going to pick the new."

"I'm such a geek about radio," she continues. "I love its intimacy and I love having a voice. The music industry is fun and it's interesting finding out about new bands, but what I really love is telling people about bands."

Indeed, names of newish artists such as Fionn Regan, Alessi's Ark and Tubelord stream from her mouth throughout our chat, and before we depart she makes sure to pick up a CD of Sam Isaac for me to try out too. It appears the soundtrack to the rest of my week is sorted. To support Marsha's marathon run, visit www.justgiving.com/marshamusic

AT SPECSAVERS WE DON'T JUST TREAT HALF YOUR HEARING PROBLEM

Hardly anybody loses their hearing in just one ear. So wearing one hearing aid can cause as many problems as it solves. In particular, it's hard to distinguish the sounds you want to hear from background noise, making speech hard to follow.

However, the price of hearing aids has always made buying two prohibitively expensive. Now, at Specsavers, we've changed all that, because we can offer two digital hearing aids for the price of one, from just £495.

Smith's skill shines on gastropub menu

Restaurant News

The Sun, 1 Judges Hill, Northaw
01707 655 507

NORTHAW has a new famous resident. Former cabinet minister Cecil Parkinson has some competition – and most probably a new drinking hole – as The Sun aims to brighten the Hertfordshire village.

Chef Oliver Smith, who previously ran Inn The Park in St James' Park, has taken over the old pub which has been restored to its 16th Century white-brick glory on the green opposite the Victorian church.

Inside you'll find a curved bar decorated with stained glass and a snug complete with original fireplace, while diners have the choice of two renovated dining rooms with antique tables and chairs and the distraction of a food map on each table showing the location of 23 producers from the east of England. And what of the food? Well,

Sunny-side-up: The Sun in Northaw benefits from a careful touch

Smith sounds as though he's excelled himself with starters of soup of nettle, fresh Cromer crab and panfried Temple Farm chicken livers and hearts on toast; mains including Hertfordshire lamb chop, wild Suffolk seabass and cauliflower and Suffolk Gold cheese flan; and desserts of chocolate and caramel pot with honey biscuits, Cambridge burnt cream with homemade raspberry jam and elderflower fool with gingernuts. Children are not forgotten with their own menu while an all-day bar and sandwich menu is available mid-week and the Sunday roasts sound particularly tempting, ranging from Sacombe Hill Farm beef rib roast with Yorkshire puddings to slow-roasted pork belly.

● Food is served Tuesdays to Sundays, noon to 10.30pm. (The pub is closed on Monday)

Recipe of the week

by Ray Hart, chef and lecturer at Southgate College

Calf's liver paté with Crostini (serves four)

Ingredients

100g butter, 1 onion, sliced
2 clove garlic chopped
100g calf's liver, diced
2 slices streaky bacon, chopped
A dash of Worcestershire sauce
Pinch of nutmeg
Freshly ground black pepper
2 tsp thyme leaves
60ml olive oil
1 baguette

Method

1. Melt the butter in a pan, then add the onion and one garlic clove and cook over a gentle heat for five minutes.
2. Add calf's liver and bacon and cook for 4-5 minutes over medium heat. Don't overcook the liver.
3. Then put mixture into a food processor, whizz the liver and bacon with the Worcestershire sauce, nutmeg, pepper and thyme. Remove to four small ramekins and chill 90 minutes in the fridge.
4. Heat griddle pan until very hot.
5. Cut eight to 12 slices of baguette, crush remaining garlic into olive oil, place bread slices into oil and onto griddle plate until tinted. Drain on kitchen towel.
6. To serve, place 2-3 warm crostini on napkin with ramekin of paté.

Beauty and a bit of beast at circus

ANIMALS and freaks seem to have been the staple diet for circus audiences during the Victorian era.

Nowadays the latter has been wisely discarded as entertainment while the former has also suffered a reversal of fortune.

Cleverly resurrecting some of the obsessions of the 1800s, Sugar Beast Circus offers a "blend of burlesque and grotesque" in as humane a way as possible, using performers part-animal, part-human!

"The relationship between performers and animals in the circus is very interesting," said director Geneva Foster Gluck. "And most of the famous acts were very clever with such things as pigs dressed up as bears and christened, 'hairless bears'! I'm certainly not being nostalgic about animals in circuses but we hark back to a historical period of scientific discovery when elements of nature and the wild were put on stage for entertainment."

The Sugar Beast Circus Show – featuring a set of miniature circus tents, dance, animation and installation – takes up the second half of the show while the first half, Milkwood Rodeo, is devoted to the kind of Indian circus which Geneva has had first-hand experience.

"I spent three months with a traditional circus in India, doing rope tricks and riding elephants," she said. "So expect lots of horses, elephants and dogs while, in the second, the lions and bears take over!"

● Sugar Beast Circus performs at Jackson's Lane in Archway Road, Highgate, from next Wednesday to Saturday at 8pm. Tickets £14.40 (£12.50 concs). 020 8341 4421.

Small-scale genius will bowl you over

Fish Tank (15)

Dir: Andrea Arnold
Starring: Katie Jarvis, Michael Fassbender, Kierston Wareing

WE'LL never be able to compete against Hollywood in terms of budget, but why bother when we can make films this good: tough little gems of real life that sparkle in the council estate sunlight.

Since Lynne Ramsay went AWOL on extended leave, writer/director Andrea Arnold – Cannes Jury Prize for Red Road, Oscar for her short film, Wasp – has turned into our foremost female British director, and here she cements her reputation with the story of Mia.

The 15-year-old lives with her single mum (Kierston Wareing) and younger sister, Tyler (Rebecca Griffiths), in one of the Essex estates you'll bomb past on the A13. Expelled from school and unable to form any lasting friendships, the natural rebel finds a caring ally in her mum's new boyfriend, Connor (Michael Fassbender), until their relationship turns dangerous.

Never patronising her working-class characters, Arnold provides compassionate snapshots of their lives as they drink, smoke and dance to the hip-hop and soul music blasting out of the estates.

Hearing Bobby Womack's version of California Dreaming on a rare day out in Connor's car, Mia interprets it into her only real passion – dance – practising over and over in a deserted flat with no company but her headphones and a two-litre bottle of cider. She wants to audition for a dance agency but the poignant result, when she gets there, is as far removed from Flashdance as Tilbury is from Tinseltown and chimes perfectly with this beautiful, bittersweet film. What holds it together, of course, is the performance of Katie Jarvis, an unknown with no acting experience, spotted when Arnold saw her arguing with her boyfriend at a railway station. As explosive a debut as the untutored Ray Winstone in Scum, Jarvis is the real deal, deserving all the plaudits soon to come her way.

She is supported by a fine cast, with special mention to Griffiths as the bolshie, foul-mouthed younger sister whose wicked retorts provide much-needed laughs among lives of quiet desperation.

by Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

500 Days of Summer (12A)

He listens to The Smiths and sings the Pixies. She has a '60s haircut and is the dictionary definition of 'kooky'. Charming but slight rom-com that blasts its indie credentials through a loud-speaker and has one of the best soundtracks of the year.

Funny People (15)

Leave after half an hour and you'd think Judd Apatow has directed an intriguing meditation on life and death through the highs and lows of stand-up comedians. Stay for the painful 145 minutes and you realise he's copped out with a trite, unfunny bit of fluff.

The Hurt Locker (15)

Fascinating look at the day-to-day danger experienced by the army's bomb squad in Iraq. Kathryn Bigelow uses a documentary style in a gripping feature played out by a crack cast of unknowns.

Inglourious Basterds (18)

Funny, violent, brash, barmy and utterly ridiculous Tarantino revision of World War Two as American soldiers – the Basterds of the title – go on a Nazi-scalping rampage led by Brad Pitt. Great ending, pretty good opening, just a shame about the big chunk in-between.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republishing or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers' control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belongs to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address.

There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

HOT-SHOT DEFOE IS INSPIRED BY BECKS

In-form striker is desperate to claim a place in England's starting line-up

By Laura Knight

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR striker Jermain Defoe has revealed that he took inspiration from David Beckham after the disappointment of missing the World Cup in 2006.

Defoe, who was left out of the squad taken to Germany by then manager Sven-Goran Eriksson in favour of uncapped teenager Theo Walcott, said he had learned from the way Beckham responded to being sent off at the 1998 World Cup.

He said: "It was disappointing to miss out but when you go through disappointments in life, it's about how you react and come back from them."

"If you look at Beckham, he got sent off in the World Cup in 1998 and had to bounce back, which he did by getting that goal against Greece a few years later to get us to another finals."

Three years on, under the management of Fabio Capello, Defoe is the in-form striker in the squad having scored five goals in his past three internationals.

And, having also scored four goals in as many games for Spurs this season, the 26-year-old is giving Capello a selection dilemma ahead of tonight's qualifier against Croatia.

Victory over Croatia would secure England's place at the World Cup in South Africa next summer, and Defoe is hoping that his current form will be enough to earn him a place in the starting line-up, despite the belief that he is best used as a substitute.

The frontman came on as a second-half substitute in the friendly against Slovenia on Saturday along with his Spurs team-mate Aaron Lennon, and the pair combined for what turned out to be the winning goal.

"Of course, I'd like to be in from the start," he said. "You want to play every game for your club and for your country. No-one wants to sit on the bench. But if I can come on and make an impact like I did, then I'll do that."

"At the minute, everything I hit seems to be going in and I'm delighted. With England you are playing with good players, so you get the opportunities."

"The manager picks the team. I'll just keep working hard and see what happens. Three points on Wednesday is the most important thing."

Tottenham Hotspur return to action in the Barclays Premier League on Saturday when they face a key game at home to champions Manchester United (5.30pm).

Hornsey fall short in bid for promotion

HORNSEY'S season ended in bitter disappointment on Saturday as they suffered a 107-run defeat at home to Harrow Town to miss out on securing promotion from Division Three of the Middlesex County Cricket League.

Hornsey had been clear at the top of the table for much of the campaign, but a slump in form in recent weeks meant they knew that only victory over promotion-rivals Harrow Town would secure them a top-two finish.

After the visitors had been put in to bat, Ian Gregory performed well with the ball for Hornsey, taking figures of 4-59 as Harrow Town were dismissed for 249.

But, despite the best efforts of Dipesh Makwana (55), this target proved far too much for the hosts who could only muster 139 in reply. Gehan Herath (7-33) enjoyed an afternoon to remember with the ball for Harrow Town.

Elsewhere in Division Three, Highgate scored a thrilling seven-run win at home to Barnet B's to secure fourth place in the table.

There was also disappointment for North London as a 32-run defeat at Enfield led to them being relegated from the second division.

Needing victory to stave off the threat of the drop, the visitors were facing an uphill battle from the moment that Anthony Heraghty's fine 115 enabled Enfield to post a challenging total of 240.

Jeff Hurrell (46) and James Battcock (35) played well as North London made a good attempt to reach their target, but they eventually fell short as they were dismissed for 208.

And North Middlesex failed to cope with the challenge of taking on champions Acton as they slumped to a comprehensive eight-wicket defeat, being bowled out for just 125 before Acton cruised to 129-2 in reply.

Draw keeps Borough's Vase hopes alive

Harpenden Town 0 Haringey Borough 0

FA Vase Qualifying Round One

HARINGEY BOROUGH failed to overcome Harpenden Town in their first FA Vase clash of the season on Saturday as the game ended in a goalless draw.

Although visiting Borough started strongly, they were unable to put Charles Collins in the Harpenden goal under any real pressure and Borough keeper Nick Christofi was instead called in to action as he produced a fine save to turn a goalbound effort over the bar before a downward header hit the post and rebounded in to his arms.

The breakthrough nearly came when Harpenden's Jack Cartwright timed his run well to beat the offside trap, but he failed to make proper contact with his shot, which sailed over the bar.

Borough enjoyed more possession in the second half and had an early chance through Lloyd Mitchell, only for his header to go wide.

Melvin Thompson-Klass had a solid display in midfield as he linked up with Billy Haspineall and Charlie Douse but they were unable to find Borough's strikers with their crosses as the match ended in a stalemate.

The replay was due to take place last night, with the winners facing a trip to Hadley in the second round.

Haringey Borough travel to Hillingdon Borough in the Spartan Premier Division on Saturday (3pm).

□ Substitute Ellen Maggs scored twice, with Sarah Clearly and Christina Oshodi also on target as Haringey Borough Women beat Woodbridge Town 4-0 in the Eastern Region League Premier Division on Sunday.
